

ADIRONDACK WILD
FRIENDS OF THE FOREST PRESERVE

WE'RE ON THE WILD'S SIDE...

SAFEGUARDING THE WILD

We advocate at the Adirondack Park Agency that natural systems should be well studied and mapped before development is sited – a process called conservation design.

Michael Klemens identifies the proposed Adirondack Club and Resort as “sprawl on steroids” at the APA hearing. Photo by Ken Rimany

EXTENDING THE WILD

We collaborate to help bring high priority landscapes into the publicly owned Adirondack Forest Preserve, like Follensby Pond.

Follensby Pond. Photo © Carl Heilman

EDUCATING FOR THE WILD

We provide university students with hands-on training and field experience in wild lands conservation.

Dan Plumley with St. Lawrence University's Adirondack semester students. Photo by Emma Carlson

We've learned from some of the greatest environmental conservationists of our time. Now it's time to pass that wisdom on, to ensure that New York's 'forever wild' legacy continues for 'the youth of distant tomorrows.'

To learn more about us, to donate, and to sign up for our FREE E-newsletter, please visit our website:

WWW.ADIRONDACKWILD.ORG