

SAVING THE GREAT OUTDOORS

IT'S A RELAY RACE OF THE GENERATIONS

Adirondack Wild brought these students to Howard Zahniser's Adirondack Cabin "Mateskared" (left) and Paul Schaefer's "Beaver House" (right) during the 50th Anniversary of the 1964 Wilderness Act. We work every day to keep "Forever Wild" living and active in the hearts and minds of folks of all ages.

At Adirondack Wild we mentor young folks every chance we get. We know our generation can't save the future Great Outdoors by ourselves. Why? Because we grasped the baton from our conservation mentors Paul Schaefer and Howard Zahniser. And they grasped it from earlier conservation champions like John Apperson.

Keeping the Adirondacks and Catskills Wild — it's a great tradition. Passing the baton can be your great and most lasting legacy. The young person you orient to wild nature could become its next great guardian.
